FOOTNOTE to

NET PROFIT. Rogado sweeps past CIT's Roselle (13) and Chambers (12) to perforate the ring with a twin-marker.

THE SPOILS. CCAA Prexy Amancio Alcaro (extreme right) hands the whilo Ally. Mario Ortis and skipper Deen Wrocklage, SVD, look on approvingly.

THE WINNERS. Photo taken after the championship game shot (captain), Epimaco Borrarnco, Reynoldo de la Cruz, (co-captain) are: Angelo Delute, (scorer), Gerardo del Rosario, Max Pizarra; Wrocklage, Roberto Reyes, Isidoro Cañizares, Manolo Suster

The gloom which enveloped the school when the Cup slipped from its grips last year instantly vanished when the Warriors once more inducted the crown it lost to a more daring team. Fanning a four-man-offense rally, the Warriors went on a free-scoring hayride that ran over their opponents. This year, as a rejuvenated Green and Gold team takes on the high bumps in Manila's championship rounds, Carolinian hopes are centered on the shooting abilities of Rogado, Cañizares, Borrarnco, tricky Deen, fleet-footed Galdo, team master Reyes and the arms of Pizarra.

Reyes, the darling doll of the team, is expected to duplicate his performance last year when he earned his "Rookie of the Year" title. Cañizares is one guy to lean on for points when the game gets tight as witnessed by USC-CIT skirmish which handed the defense ing Wilacis their first taste of defeat. With the court generalship of Boy de la Cruz, some fireworks can be expected. And, to a very large measure, the team's mechanism will depend upon the tactical skill of its brain trust, Dodong Aquino.

Without question, the Warriors have deadly scoring sock. The team is a smart combination of men with plenty of grit and staying power... men who can take it and dish it out, too.

These are the hardy men who have come home triumphant from the wars. They have met the toughest teams that local caqueton could pit against them on the hardwood. In the end, no one stood up to huri defiance at them. They and they alone rose from the ruins of the CCAA tournament. And, having survived, Dame Luck gave them the Crown!

THAR SHE BLOWS. All arms are outstretched to receive the spheroid.

UP, UP THERE. It's up there at the top where victorious mentor Aquino belongs.
