SOME SUGGESTIONS

SOME SUGGESTIONS

Due to lack of transportation and communication facilities the provinces, particularly the more remote ones, are now virtually inaccessible and "incommunicado" from the capital. Except for very urgent and strictly official business, there is no communication with certain areas with the suggested, just in case it has not yet occurred to the government authorities, that inasmuch as practically the only transportation and communication systems are those of the military today, representations and arrangements be made with the military authorities for mail and urgent private dispatches the state of the military today, representations and arrangements be made with the military authorities of mail and urgent private dispatches the state of the military today and the military state of the s

The situation is critical and the public undoubtedly understands the government's predicament. There has been and there will be much forberarance but some little facilities must at least be afforded to ameliorate growing difficulties and thus satisfy the people that really every ounce of effort is beling put forth to help them in their plight.

WE ACCEPT CITY HALL'S ASSURANCE

In good faith. The Republic' accepts the assurances of the authorities of the City that everything will turn out all right when the new harvest of rice is ready—that rice will be available at reasonable pries' and in sufficient quantities to prevent anybody from starving provided, of course, that he can and is willing to pay for it or earn it and that the priese of other commodities will also come down. We quote His Honor, the Military Governor, from "The Republic of November 5.

Our population, we are confident, join us in our prayers for the realization of the Military Governor's hopes and of plans that we urge be made now by the City itself to insure that the City's part of the new rice procurement scheme being worked out by the Joint Government and Army Committee will not go haywire and swep.

Every day this blessed assurance of relief—in December, and out of the new crop—will be on the lips of a million souls until it comes. And we pray that it will not fail, for if it will.... God bless us all and may the then blight the mid binager, still recall City Hall's promising picture of a heautiful and bountial December.

REMEMBERING A FRIEND

REMEMBERING A FRIEND

Roughly ten years ago, we were sojourning in Japan eager to learn everything that could be learned about that country and its people. It is not to be a superior of the property of the superior of the great newspaper organization. We were deeply impressed by his personal knowledge of certain historic events and characters in Philippine History and he seemed interested in us. The new frienthip that immediately grew out of this chance meeting, may have been repensible to a certain degree distressed in us. The man we ment in the Maintichi was the late Masao Matsuoka, first President of the Maintal Sinbuneya. To him, let it be said as a tribute to his memory, should be given the reddit for the uncarbing of certain townsy struggles in the past.

The late Mr. Matsuoka had revealed to us the story of the "S.S. Nobiki Maru," the ill-fated ship that had carried arms for Aguinaldo's forces. He had then the trouble of showing to us the place in linoukou, and his life-long friend, Sun Yat Sen, had lived. Again it was through his introduction that we secured from Secretary Kobayashi of the Imperial Diet the first outline of the parliamentary story of the "S.S. Nobiki Maru" episode, which after publication, served as basis and his introduction that we secured from Secretary Kobayashi of the Imperial Diet the first outline of the parliamentary story of the "S.S.
