

A Tribute to "The Young Citizen"

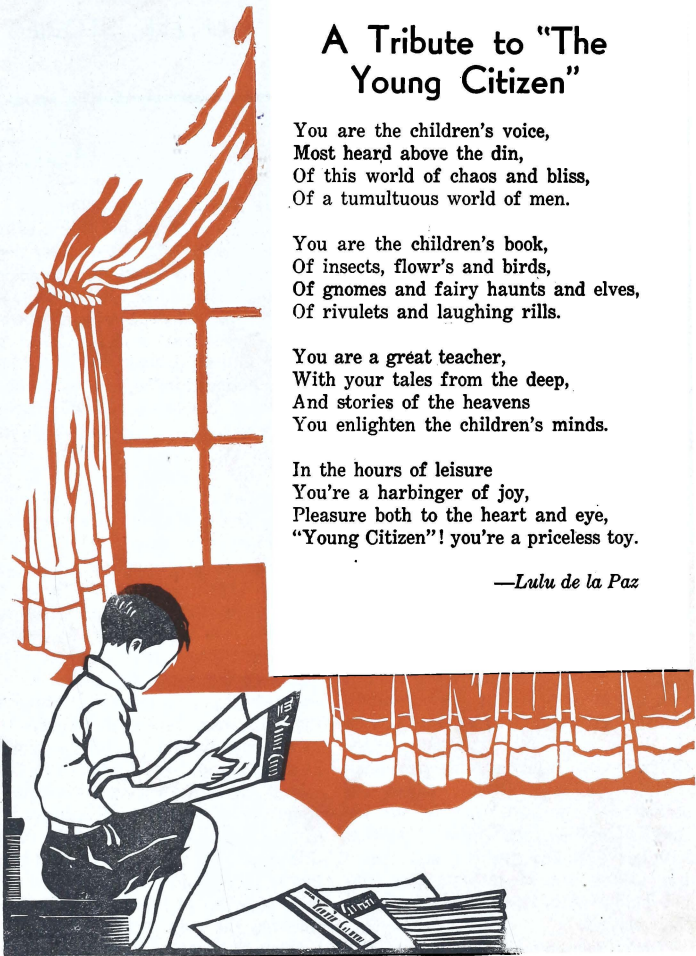

You are the children's voice,
Most heard above the din,
Of this world of chaos and bliss,
Of a tumultuous world of men.

You are the children's book,
Of insects, flower's and birds,
Of gnomes and fairy haunts and elves,
Of rivulets and laughing rills.

You are a great teacher,
With your tales from the deep,
And stories of the heavens
You enlighten the children's minds.

In the hours of leisure
You're a harbinger of joy,
Pleasure both to the heart and eye,
"Young Citizen"! you're a priceless toy.
